“ There’s so many great memories that come to mind when I think of my grandma. She was so full of love to share, there wasn’t a moment I can remember when she didn’t try to pick us up when we were down. Every Sunday since I was a baby was “Grandmas day” all my life I still couldn’t figure out why we had Dinner at 1pm but that was grandma, anything but the norm. She could fill a room with smiles with just a look. I’m going to miss her so much, every Christmas light I see, every cookie, fudge, dolphin, boat, I see grandma and hear her voice guiding me. I love you grandma, keep shining your light on us.

*The world got a little darker today. Not only was she a terrific cook and baker, but she had that unmistakable voice and smile.
Rest well Bonnalicious

“ I remember having alot of sleepovers at my sister Bonnie's and her mom and I would always crack jokes and laugh and laugh. I am sure my sister and I drove her nuts through out the years. But she loved us anyway. I also remember that anytime I was in philmont whether day or night I could not for the life of me figure out how my mother would know. I knew my mom didnt have a gps tracker in my car and I was confident my mom and Bonnie didnt talk. So I thought it was a win win, that my mom would never know I was in Philmont if I wasnt supposed to be. Will unbeknownst to me MA (my sisters mom) would call my mom the second she saw me drive by lol. And i only found this out years ago. Those little sneaks were in cahoots behind my back lol. I remember many nights sitting at her kitchen table while she drank hot tea and we would pick on each other or Dell or my sister lol. She always told me i was nuts, she was right. I will surely miss her and iam so grateful for the many great memories I have. Say hello to my daddy for me and give my gramma a big hug. And it is never goodbye, its until i see you again. We love u and will miss you everyday but we will know that you are now dancing in the sky and doing all the things u loved to do. Xoxoxo

“ I have nothing but nice memories of Bonnie. Growing up next door, John and I would play together as children. We would usually end up in a fist fight over a matchbox car or something stupid. Poor Bonnie would be the one to have to break up the fight...but even then, I don't recall her ever yelling at me. And I'm sure I gave her plenty of reasons back then. When I was 23, I told her that I was moving to Florida. She knew that I loved her homemade fudge and about an hour before I left for my trip, she stopped over with a cookie tin FILLED with fudge. Honestly, I think that fudge was GONE before I even made it out of New York state. Every time I eat fudge, I can't help but think of that day. May she rest in peace.
