“ In the late 70'-early 80's, I met and worked with Richie. We worked shifts in the jail, shifts in "commo" which was the original "911" kind of place, and out "on the road." Rich always had a smile, a little mischief that was never mean, and knew everyone in the county.

We called Richie "the big O." He was an imposing presence when we needed one, but unless you got him angry, he was a big kind hearted bear. He could bring a big voice as needed, and a calming smile if that was needed. He was a people person, not a lawman.

Rich kept his family first, his community came next. He loved to to tell farming stories. I think if the animals talked back, he would have stayed on the farm. He had to be around people to make his day complete. "Work" was a place to see people, but home was where his heart was. He beamed about Carol, and the kids. All of them. I'm sure he made them blush as he always made an effort to highlight how important they are.

I miss those days with the "O." Rest well Richie. Prayers for Carol and family.
